LEADERSHIP

Phase 1:

AI Co-Pilots, First Automations & Agents:

Employees from all departments can use an intelligent AI Co-Pilot, integrated with business software via Chat GPT connectors, to work faster and more effectively.

Initial automations and agents are built for core departments, with human-in-the-loop workflows automated to support cultural adoption and training.

During monthly team meetings, AI champions from each department are identified based on their use of Co-Pilots, understanding of AI technology, and enthusiasm for adoption in this first phase.

Phase 2:

AI Brains, Additional Automations & Agents:

AI Brains, accessible to employees in all departments, tap into company knowledge bases, analyze data beyond human capability, and are voice-enabled to participate in meetings.

Additional automations and agents are developed for advanced workflows requiring minimal human-in-the-loop oversight, implemented after the workforce has culturally adopted AI.

In this phase, data structuring, transformation, and cultural training on data handling are critical, laying the foundation for phase 3's autonomous AI agents, which can leverage all automations and functionalities from phases 1 and 2 simultaneously.

Phase 3:

Autonomous AI Agents & Complex Automations:

Drawing on all automations developed in phases 1 and 2, autonomous AI agents function as company-aligned operators, working much like human employees.

More complex agent automations are created for advanced, dynamic workflows that require minimal oversight, implemented once all other automations are in place.

In this phase, data, training, and cultural adoption are fully matured, enabling a smoother transition to integrating autonomous AI agents into the organization.
